

Caution

NEC evaluates VMware patches, version upgrade modules, and revision upgrade modules, and then provides them as part of NEC PP support service. Modules can also be obtained from the VMware, Inc. website, but note that, if a module that is not registered as part of the NEC PP support service is applied to an environment, the PP support service is no longer applicable for the environment. When considering applying a patch or upgrading the VMware version or revision, first confirm that the patch or module is part of the PP support service.

When applying PP support service by Registration Form, please also fill out the activation code corresponding to each license product. (One activation code is in the license sheet packaged in a license product.)